2018 NEW Specialist Birding Adventure

LOONS – “Gavia immer”

Canada’s Voice of The Wilderness The Call Of The North

Loons and Their Chicks

If you are an avid birder and crazy about Loons this special guided birding adventure on the many boreal lakes of the Cariboo Mountains is not to be missed. The distinctive mystical haunting call of the Loon is both magical and mysterious – the masterpiece of nature’s symphony. It’s the voice of the Canadian wilderness - the “call of the North” and truly herald’s the arrival of spring.

This nature adventure has special emphasis on Loons, their habitat, their families, lives, history and a whole lot more. While focusing on the loons you may also see a variety of other birds including raptors, hawks, nightjars, warblers, western tanagers along with a variety of wildlife including bears, moose, deer, mountain caribou, and perhaps wolves and lynx, and other delightful small animals.

This little known birding area, the rare interior ancient rainforest of the Cariboo Mountains in central British Columbia, is rich in birdlife with over 250 species from tiny hummingbirds and songbirds to raptors and water birds including the elegant Loons dressed in their brilliant black and white plumage. The myriad of boreal lakes throughout the mountains provide an ideal and spectacular natural environment for the loons to raise their chicks with backwater coves and protected shoreline shelter for nesting sites. The clear waters provide abundant food sources including fish minnows, nymphs and rich aquatic plant life. Watch these birds with their unique black and white markings as you learn about their evolution and watch as the chicks in their charcoal and black downy coats ride on the backs of the adult birds as they learn the ways of their watery wilderness habitat. Don’t miss this unique Canadian birding experience. An incredible birding experience in an authentic Canadian wilderness ‘classroom’ led by expert naturalists and birders. Minimum – 2 people. Season – mid-May through July.

A few facts about loons –

- Loons are the oldest living birds on earth with a history dating back over 20 million years.
- Loons are related to penguins
- Loons can live 24 – 30 years
- Loons arrive on lakes throughout northern Canada at ice-out and stay until late fall, often until lakes start to freeze.
- Nesting season is from mid to end of May. Loons lay only 2 eggs which both parents take turns incubating and which hatch in about 30 days.
- The Common Loon’s eyes turn red during mating season.
- Loons nest on forested lakes and rivers and winter on coastal bays and oceans south to the Gulf Coast.
- Loons are clumsy on land because of the set of their legs well back on their bodies, but are spectacular swimmers and divers capable of diving to depths of nearly 200 feet.
- Loons provide an indication of the quality of the aquatic environment they inhabit as they require clear water with an abundant food supply.
- There are five species of loons – the Common Loon or Great Northern Loon (Gavia immer), Red-throated loon (Gavia stellata), Pacific Loon (Gavia pacifica), Arctic Loon or Black Throated Loon (Gavia artica) and Yellow-billed Loon (Gavia adamsii).

Description

The loon has a large, heavy body with a thick and pointed black bill. In the breeding season the plumage, head and neck are black with white bands on the neck and white spots on the back; in the winter the crown, hindneck and upperparts dark grey and the throat and underparts are white. Loons are expert divers whose eyes can focus both in water and in air. The call of the loon, is a loud, wailing laugh or a mournful yodel and has been described as “one of the most striking wilderness sounds, a strange, sad, mournful, unearthly cry, half laughing, half wailing”.

A Totem of Native Loon Mythology

The loon is a solitary bird of the wilderness that symbolizes tranquility, serenity and the reawakening of old hopes, wishes and dreams. The Loon relies on water and water is a symbol for dreams and multiple levels of consciousness, therefore Loons teach us to pay attention to our dreams, wishes and hopes. A Legend says that to see a Loon is a symbol of a dream come true or an answered wish.
